An illustrated talk on a British view of Dresden by Dr. Alan Russell, Chairman of the Dresden Trust

The DresdenTrust was established in 1993 to promote religious understanding and to help rebuild the Frauenkirche as a memorial to all those who died in WWII air raids.

Dr. Russell will be speaking on the origins of the Trust, the raid on Dresden and the iconic status that city has subsequently acquired. He will also tell us about the rebuilding of the city and the Frauenkirche and express his belief in the city's bright cultural future - despite its loss of World Heritage status.

A special guest this evening will be Masha Davies (née Obolenskaya) of Lamberhurst, who, as an eleven year-old girl, lived through the inferno of the bombing raids on Dresden and will tell us of "The night my childhood came to an end".
